Hello Lisa and Krystal, I just want to give you and your client a heads up. Very shortly I will be entering into another stage of my legal process that will include your client and yourself in a very meaningful way. I am reaching out to you in a sincere yet somewhat perfunctory manner as I assume you will not respond. Nevertheless, i respond. Nevertheless, i need to be on record as someone who extended a hand before escalating this endeavor as this is your client's last chance to be seen in a certain light in this state and beyond. As you will understand shortly, there will be no reconciliation between you, your client, and myself in the coming days as certain bells can never be unrung. I am extending to you this final offer for myself in the coming days as certain bells can never be unrung. I am extending to you this final offer for you both to reach out to me and do the right thing. If I do not hear from either of you in 2 days I will interpret the silence as your answer...and we all will know that I gave you and your client a chance to impact your legal future in a meaningful way. Good luck to you both in this decision. Alex
